ABOUT US

On July 16, 2021, Natalie Gray of Powell, Ohio was diagnosed with an inoperable brain tumor at the age of 14. After two brain surgeries in five days, Natalie returned home to recover, but her journey and treatment was just beginning. She's now endured several rounds of chemotherapy and the after effects, all the while having to handle regular teenager things like algebra tests.

From the beginning of her diagnosis, Natalie has been adamant about using her medical diagnosis & experience to help others on her cancer journey.

It was her idea to start a foundation to help other children and families impacted by brain tumors. She inspired incredible support and worked with others to create this foundation and guide its goal of raising funds to provide support and inspire hope for children diagnosed with brain tumors through resources, research, and funding.

Natalie's positive attitude, her zest for life and her passion to help others is a constant source of inspiration. She is why we are here.

CONNECT CONSORTIUM

On September 20, 2022, the Natalie Gray Foundation for Pediatric Brain Tumors committed to donate $250,000 over five years to the CONNECT Consortium, an organization focused on developing and testing treatments for children with brain tumors.

Dr. Maryam Fouladi is the founding director and chair of the CONNECT Consortium and is a critical member of Natalie's care team at Nationwide Children's Hospital. Dr. Fouladi said CONNECT allows 18 member institutions around the world to coordinate brain tumor research and fill gaps between new and existing cancer therapies.

"It is heartwarming to see such courage and generosity in the face of adversity. These are much needed funds to combat this devastating disease both locally and globally," said Dr. Fouladi.

To date, we have donated $100,000 to the Connect Consortium!
